

STOP THE HATE FESTS ON CANADIAN UNIVERSITY CAMPUSES

Presidents of Canadian universities must demonstrate leadership. They must come forward to prevent Israel Apartheid Week, an event that has become notorious for promoting hatred against the Jewish State and its student supporters here at home. They must stand up to the daily, ongoing anti-Jewish agitation that has taken root on campuses across the country.

Boards of Governors, professors, alumni and benefactors must also act now.

A poisoned environment is being fostered where Jewish students are increasingly intimidated and targeted for hate. In recent weeks, there have been documented cases of assaults on Jewish students, threats, ongoing harassment, and mob scenes. These incidents are being ignored by university administrations and campus security. Police forces, when called to the scene, all too often turn a blind eye.

The pretense that all is well in Canada is over. When good people do not act, radicals fill the void.

TAKE A STAND AGAINST ANTISEMITISM ON CAMPUS

HOW YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

- If you are a graduate of a university that refuses to condemn antisemitic hate fests, it is time to register your protest directly with the President, with a copy to bnb@bnaibrith.ca.
- If you are a donor to such a university, it is time to withhold any future contributions. Inform B'nai Brith of your actions.
- If you are a Canadian taxpayer and want to stop your dollars from promoting hate, voice your public opposition at every opportunity. Work with B'nai Brith to stop the intolerance.
- If you are a concerned Canadian who opposes the hijacking of campus agendas by those promoting hatred, then you are obliged to speak up.

B'nai Brith Canada pledges its ongoing support to Jewish students. We urge students to call the organization's toll-free 24-7 Anti-Hate Hotline – 1-800-892-2624 – to report all antisemitic incidents.
